BUCKEYES ARE IMPROVED LOT

Scarlet and Gray Take Advantage of Superior Size in Victory.

BUCKS CLOSE STRONG

Brown Leads Late Rally to Gain Individual Point-Making Honors.

By CLARENCE YOUNG,
Sunday Journal Staff Writer.

to the "you'll have to show me addition of their native state, Missouri's midget Tigers gamely battled against an improved Ohio State quintet only to absorb a 30 to 17 setback at the hands of the Buckeyes Saturday night on the State Fair Grounds Coliseum hard-wood.

It was a different Ohio State team that faced the Bengals than the one that unimpressively defeated Ohio University four evenings previous. The team that met the Missourians clicked more smoothly and functioned with more polish than the one that represented the Buckeyes against the Athens Bobcats.

Nevertheless, Ohio State's victory over the Tigers was not so one-sided as the score would tend to indicate. Only in the closing minutes of play did the game assume the appearance of a rout, when the hostilities became of the wild rough and tumble variety.

The Buckeyes led throughout the contest, but it was not until late in the second half that the victory seemed assured. Capt. Hoffer of the Scarlet and Gray forces came through with the first fielder, capitalizing upon an under the basket opportunity almost before the sound of the opening whistle had died.

Missouri provided stubborn rivalry for the Buckeyes and, save during last 10 minutes, was always close enough behind the leading Ohio Staters to be considered dangerous.

After enjoying an 18 to 12 advantage at the halfway mark, the Buckeyes saw their edge dwindle to 21-17 with only 12 minutes to play. Then the Olsen charges adopted freezing methods in order to protect their precious lead. The Missouri defense permitted itself to be drawn out of position with the result that the Ohio Staters scored nine points while holding the opposition pointless for the remainder of the contest.

Nature endowed the Buckeyes a distinct advantage in height and reach and this proved to be invaluable to the ultimate victors. Passer, Missouri guard, who is only four and a half feet tall, brought forth gales of laughter from the crowd of 4660 fans as he competed against the Ohio State giants.

Herb Brown, a surprise starter at forward in the Scarlet and Gray lineup, was the individual star of the fray. Brown took scoring honors with 11 points, five baskets and a free throw.

The balance of the Ohio State point-making was divided between three players—Capt. Hoffer, Hosket and Mattison. Hoffer scored nine points and Hosket and Mattison five apiece. Collings and Passer each tallied four points for the visitors.

Both teams displayed unusual accuracy from the free throw line, Ohio State cashing in on eight out of 11 charity tosses while Missouri made seven out of a like number.

An improved Buckeye quintet "showed" a team that "had to be shown" but the Ohio Staters must exhibit far more improvement if they are to be serious contenders for the Western Conference title.

BOB COLBURN SCORES 16 POINTS IN DEBUT

Dayton Stivers High Product Leads Buckeyes to Victory
Over Eastern Team After Slow Start in First Half;
Only 2405 See Game.

By CLARENCE YOUNG.

Yale's Sons of Old Eli were given a thorough lesson in basket ball at the Fair Grounds Coliseum Tuesday night by Bobby Colburn and his supporting faculty of Ohio State courtiers. The lesson cost the Yale quintet a 33 to 20 defeat and, in the face of the setback, the benefits of the session derived therefrom were expensive.

At the outset it appeared that the boys in Yale's blue might be the teachers and the Ohio State basketeers the pupils, as the Buckeyes were slow in starting. A barking dog, however, never bites, and the Bulldogs were found to be toothless when they snapped at the Ohio Staters.

The Bulldogs barked loudest in the first half and the intermission saw the Scarlet and Gray courtiers

Ohio State flash for high point honors, registering nine markers.

Due, no doubt, to the Buckeyes' slow start and the scoring—or, rather, the absence of it—the first half was uninteresting and listless.

Fully four minutes elapsed before the clever Colburn inaugurated the point-making with a basket from the side of the court. After 12 minutes of play, Yale was in front, 3 to 2, but two baskets by Hoffer, a free throw by Colburn and Mattison enabled the Buckeyes to hold the upper hand at the half.

The Bulldogs simply could not keep step with the pace set by Colburn and his cohorts after play was resumed. Three of the Daytonian's five baskets in the second half were recorded from difficult positions while he was surrounded by Yale warriors.

The Buckeyes outscored their opponents from the floor, 13 to 8, and from the 15-foot line, 7 to 4. Yale failed to cash in on only three free throws, while Ohio State was charged with missing nine.

Earl Nikkel, visitors' forward, witnessed the end of the game from the bench, having been banished for committing four personal fouls.

Only 2405 fans saw the game, which concluded the Buckeyes' pre-Christmas schedule. The victory was the Ohio Stater's third of the season and they have not yet tasted defeat this season.

Fred Conrad attempted to fill Bill Hosket's shoes at the center position in the Buckeyes' lineup, and although he succeeded fairly well, he is not Hosket when it comes to scoring points from a pivot.

Yale was not represented by its full strength. Bill Saner, sharp-shooting forward, is on the shelf with an injured leg, while the renowned Albie Booth, Eli's Little Boy Blue, is in an eastern sanitarium with an attack of pleurisy.

BUCKS GIVEN FIRST SETBACK OF SEASON

Colburn Leads Scorers With 11 Points; Late Rally Falls
Short by One Point; Commodores Trail at Half, 12 to 7; Game Develops Into Sizzler.

By CLARENCE YOUNG.

Achilles had his heel, Dempsey his Tunney, the Athletics their Cardinals, Notre Dame its Southern California—and now Ohio State has its Vanderbilt.

The Buckeyes suffered their first defeat of the season on the hard-court Thursday night, losing a heart-breaking 28 to 27 decision to the Nashville Commodores at the Fair Grounds Coliseum before some 1700 fans. From several viewpoints, the contest was a replica of that football setback that the southerners handed Ohio State last fall.

The battle, at the outset, bore the trade-marks of a listless, uninteresting affair but later it developed into a sizzler and at the finish the Buckeye partisans were on their feet, cheering wildly and lustily.

Trailing, 28 to 19, with three and a half minutes remaining, the Scarlet and Gray courtiers were forced not only to play against the rangy Vanderbilt quintet but also to combat time as the precious moments clicked into oblivion.

Undaunted, Ohio State fought game in its "now or never" attempt to overtake the Commodores but the gap proved too large to be closed in such a short length of time.

While Vanderbilt was being held scoreless, Bobby Colburn led the belated Buckeye attack. Colburn contributed three baskets in the closing minutes, the other being caged by Capt. Joe Hoffer from the side of the court.

Colburn topped the individual scorers in the conflict with 11 points, which included five fielders. Julian Foster of the visitors was next in line with nine markers while Bill Schwartz, Vanderbilt captain, came third, registering eight points.

Ohio State outscored its southern rivals, 11 to 10, but from the 15-foot line, Vanderbilt enjoyed the advantage, 8 to 5. Both teams recorded half of their free throw attempts.

The Buckeyes set the pace almost throughout the entire first half, at the conclusion of which they were leading 12 to 7. Led by Henderson, stellar guard, the Commodores came back in the second half and after six minutes of play overtook the Ohio Staters with the count 15 to 14.

The Vanderbilt quintet surprisingly increased the margin until late in the contest when the Buckeyes gallantly rose and all but met the occasion.

Thus did the Buckeyes and Commodores usher out Grandpa 1931. The game placed salt, instead of salve, on the football wounds that the southerners inflicted upon the Scarlet and Gray athletes.

Nine cagers broke into the Ohio State lineup while the starting Vanderbilt quintet was not altered. Johnny Fugitt, making his debut in the Buckeye cage regimentals, was the only Ohio State player to remain active during the entire conflict.

Hoffer Gets Two Baskets Late in Game

Colburn Leads Buck Scorers with 10 Points. Lead Shifts Frequently.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., JAN. 5.—Ohio State opened its Big Ten conference basket-ball season, Monday night, by defeating Coach Ruby's University of Illinois quintet 29 to 28 after the Illini led at the end of the half 11 to 9.

The game was hard fought, the score being close throughout, although on two occasions Illinois led by four-point margins.

JOE HOFFER CONNECTS.

With four minutes of play remaining, Illinois led by three points, but two field baskets in quick succession by Hoffer, Buckeye captain and guard, put Ohio State into the lead, which they held thereafter.

Hellmich, lanky Illini center, scored the final basket for the Illini shortly before the gun popped.

Fugitt, clever Buckeye forward started the scoring when he caged a field basket after five minutes of play.

Bennett scored the initial point for Illinois on a free throw and Bobby Kamp heaved in a field basket, putting Illinois into the lead, which they held during the remainder of the period.

Hellmich scored a field basket after one-half minute of play in the second half, giving Illinois a four-point lead, but Ohio State tied the count at 13 all.

Thereafter it was anyone's game, both teams fighting desperately.

The advantage changed hands several times until near the finish, when the Buckeyes started caging close shots.

It was the sort of a game which the winner deserved to win.

CONRAD GOES OUT.

Conrad, Ohio State center, was eliminated from the game in the second half on fouls. Bobby Kamp featured the Illinois scoring with six field baskets and a free throw, while Colburn led the Buckeye tallying with four field baskets and two free throws.

Bucks Fight Valiantly In Second Half

Force Game Into Overtime Period After Overcoming 8-Point Lead.

By ALVIN ROSENSWEET.
PURDUE beat Ohio State 38 to 33. Monday night, at the coliseum, in one of those overtime battles that crop up every now and then to leave a multitude of gasping spectators in their wake. Here was a contest that contained virtually the entire range of basketball thrills and chills, with an Ohio State team conceding not a chance, even to bother the Bollermakers, making a valiant stand that, unfortunately, lacked the important finishing drive for victory.

LAMBERT'S BLUNDER.
Losing 25 to 17, as the second half got under way, the Buckeyes played furiously to come within a point of their opponents at 27-26, and there caused Coach "Piggy" Lambert of Purdue to commit a tactical blunder that almost cost his team the old ball game. As it ultimately turned out, the mistake did force the game into an extra period.

Bobby Colburn had just arched in a shot from near the foul line to bring the Buckeyes within a point of the Bollermakers, when Lambert, in the heat of the battle, walked onto the floor, in direct violation of the basketball code. His team was immediately charged with a technical foul, and Joe Hoffer made the free throw good to tie the count at 27-all.

Immediately afterward, Wooden made good on a pair of fouls and Fehring dribbled in fast to boost the visitors' score to 31. Here, Purdue faltered long enough to allow Colburn to score an off-balance shot and to enable Conrad to tally a bat-in.

With two minutes to play, Jerry Fisher sent in a rousing shot from the side to give the Buckeyes a two-point lead, but Fehring evened the score by driving in hard shortly before the regulation time was over.

It was Johnny Wooden, Purdue's American guard, held in check by Hoffer throughout the entire game, who brought victory to his team in the extra period.

Shortly after the start of the overtime session, with the Ohio defense out of position for a fleeting but vital moment, Wooden passed to Ray Eddy, open underneath the basket, who made good the shot. Then Wooden popped a field goal over Hoffer's head from outside the foul line, later made good one out of two fouls, and Ohio's hopes faded entirely.

PARMENTER ON SPREE.
Wooden and Harry Kellar are Purdue's most highly-rated players, but Monday night it was a little heard-of guard, Ralph Parmenter, who was largely responsible for the lead the engineers amassed in the first period.

From uncanny distances, at times from the side and at other times from near the center of the floor, Parmenter zipped five field goals through the net in the first half, two of them even falling to touch the rim. He missed only two shots in the first half.

Parmenter sent Purdue off to a slight lead at the start of the game, but the Buckeyes soon went ahead, leading early in the first period, 7 to 4. Then Purdue got busy, scoring 12 points while the Olsenmen were making but one, and the Bollermakers were ahead, 16 to 8.

Purdue maintained that advantage to lead 25 to 17 at the half, but at the outset of the second period, Ohio, with Brown, Conrad, Hoffer and Colburn scoring, made an issue of it. In the first 12 minutes of the second half, Purdue scored only two points while the Buckeyes made seven.

Capt. Joe Hoffer was Ohio's shining light. Given the difficult assignment of guarding Wooden, he held the Purdue ace to a single goal in the first half and two fouls in the second period.

And without neglecting his defensive duties, Hoffer scored nine points, tallying three times from the floor and three times from the foul line.

The Buckeyes were apparently due for a trimming when Howard Mattison left the game on personals five minutes before the first half was over, but Jerry Fisher negated the effects of Mattison's departure.

Fisher played magnificently, battling hard, pairing up well with Hoffer, and scoring the basket that gave the Buckeyes a lead with a minute to go in the second period.

Bobby Colburn, with four baskets and a foul, tied Hoffer for high scoring honors for the Buckeyes, but he hardly overshadowed Brown and Conrad, who played a fighting, nerve-racking, strength-sapping game.

Individually and collectively, the Buckeyes were far different from the sluggish, faltering team that fell before Michigan less than two weeks ago.

Possibly, Purdue was a better team than the overtime period and the closeness of the final score indicate. But that, in the long run, is mute evidence of the battle put on by Ohio for the edification of 4685 spectators, who suffered serious cardiac disturbances throughout a palpitating second half.

JOE HOFFER LEADS BUCKS TO VICTORY

Conquest Marks Second Western Conference Triumph for Scarlet and Gray Team; Moffitt Stars for Corn-State Team.

By CLARENCE YOUNG, Sunday Journal Staff Writer.

AVING off a spirited and determined Iowa rally in the closing minutes of play, Ohio State's basket ball team recorded its second successive Western Conference victory of the season Saturday night, by defeating the Hawkeyes, 20 to 17, before a crowd of 4660 fans at the Fair Grounds Coliseum.

The Iowans helped themselves to a slender lead only to be overtaken by the Buckeyes in the middle of the first half. After enjoying a 13 to 6 advantage at the interlude, the Scarlet and Gray courtiers retained their apparently comfortable lead until late in the second session.

ROGERS' FIELD GOAL CAUSES FEAR.

With two and a half minutes remaining, Jack Kotlow of the visitors caged a basket from far out on the floor to place Iowa only three points in the rear, the count then being 13 to 15. Joe Hoffer, Buckeye captain and guard, added a two-plyer to the Ohio State total but Alex Rogers of the Iowans matched the timely Hoffer fielder with another short one. Fears of Buck rooters that their favorites would be deprived of the triumph were routed by the welcomed crack of the timer's gun, which must have been sweet music to the ears of the Scarlet and Gray players.

Hoffer was the individual star of the game. In addition to sparkling on defense, the Buckeye pilot found time to collect three baskets and a pair of free throws, enough to give him high scoring honors.

BOBBY COLBURN CONTRIBUTES SEVEN POINTS.

Bobby Colburn, flaxen-haired Ohio State forward, raced second to Hoffer for point-making laurels. Colburn contributed seven points, including three baskets. Howard Moffitt of the Old Gold quintet counted for six markers, which were composed of three long baskets.

The Buckeye victory, marking Ohio State's first home Big Ten engagement of the season and also Iowa's opening contest in the circuit, enabled the Scarlet and Gray to remain in the thick of the fight for place.

Ohio State outscored the weak Iowans from both the floor, 8 to 7, and the 15-foot line, 4 to 3. Harold Swaney, Hawkeye guard, was banished in the middle of the second half via the personal foul route.

Easy for Buckeyes

Mattison and Hoffer Outstanding, While Conrad Leads Point-Makers.

IOWA CITY, Iowa.—(AP)—Ohio State's undefeated cagers swamped the University of Iowa Saturday night, 40 to 23, to remain undefeated in the Western Conference basketball ratings.

The Buckeyes, aided by superior height, ruled the game from the outset, scoring seven points before the Iowans counted. The Hawkeyes displayed a listless attack.

Most of the Buckeyes' points were scored from under the basket, while Iowa, unable to penetrate a defense, resorted to long shots.

Mattison and Hoffer were outstanding for the visitors, the former scoring five field goals. Conrad, elongated Buckeye center, took high point honors with five baskets and a free throw. Ohio State's two veteran guards, Hoffer and Mattison, kept the Iowa offense well in check.

The Iowans appeared helpless during most of the contest before a shower of Buckeye field goals which rained from all angles and without regard to distance. The Hawkeyes, depending upon a delayed offense, were unable to come within scoring distance. Falling back upon distance shots, the Iowans threw the ball away time after time in a vain effort to find the hoop.

The contest, abounding in personal fouls, was rough and ragged for the most part, both teams displaying a listless brand of floor play.

Capt. Hoffer, Buckeye guard, was removed from the game in the second period because of four personals. He had scored three goals from the field before leaving the contest.

The Buckeyes' first half attack gave them a lead of 13-3 before the Iowans were able to tally from the field. A field goal by Moffitt was followed by an over-the-shoulder toss by Conrad. Kotlow tossed in one from the foul line area and the score stood at 15-3. Moffitt's long shot from the side immediately after concluded the Hawkeyes' scoring from the field for the period.

Field goals by Mattison, Colburn and Conrad and a charity toss by Conrad finished the half for the Buckeyes, while Iowa tallied one more point when Hoffer was called for fouling Moffitt, giving the Buckeyes a margin of 11 points.

The Buckeyes started a vigorous rush as the second period opened and Hoffer's two field goals with a short shot by Mattison gave Ohio a 23-11 lead, the largest margin of the game.

The Iowans managed but four more field goals contributed by Filkins, Moffitt and Rogers, during the remainder of the period. Conrad, Mattison and Fugitt continued to take long chances at the basket for the Buckeyes bringing their score to an unassailable position as the game ended.

Ohio Cagers Defeated By 25-24 Score

Scarlet and Gray Machine
Rallies in Second Half
After Trailing 11-3.

EVANSTON, ILL., JAN. 23.
(INS). — Northwestern kept its slate clean in the Western Conference basketball race here tonight by defeating Ohio State, 25 to 24 in a battle for the Big Ten leadership.

It was Northwestern's sixth consecutive victory and Ohio State's first defeat in four starts.

BUCKEYES RALLY.

The game marked the third one-point victory squeezed out by the defending conference champions.

Northwestern's cagers had it all their own way during the first half.
At the end of the period they led by the score of 11 to 3.

The vaunted Buckeye offense failed to click during this first half. Ohio State's running and passing attack was powerless against a tight Purple defense.

But, when the second half opened the invading Ohioans lost little time catching their stride. Captain and Right Guard Hoffer caged two shots in rapid succession.

A few minutes later another uncanny corner shot by Hoffer and a long heave by Left Guard Mattison tied the score at 19 to 19.

The Buckeyes forged to a one-point lead with a free throw by Conrad, but the Wildcats soon evened it up again with Johnson's free throw.

Reiff of Northwestern and Conrad followed each other with field goals, prolonging the tie. Reiff caught another hoopster with a ten-foot fling, but Colburn of Ohio State broke through on a dribble to tie the score again at 24 to 24.

FOUL IS COSTLY.

Just 30 seconds before the final gun barked Johnson, throwing free on a foul by Conrad, dropped the ball through the hoop to register the winning point.

Both Colburn and Hoffer connected for three baskets while Mattison connected for two baskets and a three free throws.

Johnson, who took McCarnes' place at center for the Wildcats led the home guard in point-making with nine points, collecting three fielders and as many free throws. McCarnes, shifted to forward, scored two baskets while Joe Reiff, speedy Northwestern forward, weighed in with three.

DECISIVE REVERSAL

Wolverines Take Safe Lead Early in Game; Colburn Held Scoreless.

Taking a safe lead early in the game and maintaining it to the finish, Michigan's veteran basketballers buried Ohio State under an avalanche of 16 baskets and six free throws to smother the Buckeyes, 38-25, Thursday night. A crowd of 5735 fans, the largest to see either team in action this season, almost taxed the seating capacity of the State Fair Grounds Coliseum to witness the debacle.

The reversal erased Ohio State's the Western Conference championship picture, at least for the present, forcing the Buckeyes into a tie for fifth place with Illinois. One the other hand, the victory boosted the Wolverines into a deadlock with Purdue for third position.

Michigan staged a seemingly unstoppable scoring orgy shortly after the game started and late in the first half enjoyed a comfortable 19-7 advantage over the home guard. The Buckeyes rallied somewhat before the rest period, however, but were on the short end of a 21 to 14 count at the half.

Throughout the second half the Buckeyes frantically endeavored to overtake the Maize and Blue, but to no avail.

Garner fell a victim of the four personal foul ruling early in the second portion and was later followed by Conrad.

Norman Daniels, the visitors' high scoring captain, hit the ring for five baskets to claim point-making honors. Capt. Hoffer topped the Buckeye scorers with eight markers.

Bobby Colburn, Ohio State's offensive ace, was held without a point by Ivy Williamson, stellar Michigan guard, who hails from Toledo. Williamson, in addition, found time to cage nine points.

Restricted to seven fielders, the Buckeyes made good on 11 of 14 free throws to increase their point total considerably. The Wolverines failed to convert nine of their penalty tosses into points.

Buckeyes Win

Ohio State Takes 30 to 26 Decision From Virginia.

Special to The Citizen.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Feb. 6.—Ohio State's basketball team was to play Navy at Annapolis Saturday after handing University of Virginia its second defeat of the season here last night, 30 to 26.

Virginia lost through its inability to convert free throws, but Ohio, on the other hand, used a squad of substitutes throughout most of the game.

During the first half and most of the second period the two teams battled on almost even terms, the lead changing 10 times during the 40 minutes. Ohio was somewhat handicapped by the strict officiating, not in vogue in the Big Ten. Score:

Last Minute Rally Costly To Buckeyes

Final Score Is 35-32; Hoffer Plays Sparkling Game For Scarlet.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., FEB. 6. — Displaying by far their best form of the season, the basket-ball team of Annapolis Midshipmen eked out a 35 to 32 victory over Ohio State university here today in the most thrilling and hair-raising contest of the local season.

First one and then the other team was in the van and the result was ever in doubt at one time. It looked as though the Buckeyes, after overcoming a nine-point advantage in the closing stages of the battle would be returned the winner, but the Tars staged a last minute spurt when the visitors were in the van at 32 to 31, to pull victory out of the fire.

A field goal from fast scrimmage by Bedell and two tosses from the charity strip by Loughlin decided the issue.

OLSEN USES SUBS.

Navy had its full strength on the floor at the start of the game.

The Ohioans elected to start a second string combination and this group did not retire until 14 minutes had elapsed and the Middies had crept into the lead at 16 to 7.

The big boys from Ohio then took command and outscored the Tars 9 to 4 in the remaining six minutes though Navy still held the lead at the rest period 20 to 16.

But the real battle was yet to be staged.

The Sailors started the second half like great guns, outplaying the visitors and running the score up to 29 to 18, within eight minutes. This was the greatest margin that separated the teams at any stage of the fracas.

Hoffer, who played a brilliant game throughout for Ohio State then started his team on a rally and with Colburn and Conrad figuring in the scoring the count was knotted at 29-29. Hoffer making the goal that brought about the tie.

COLBURN SHOOTS FOUL

A foul goal by Colburn gave the Buckeyes a lone point lead, but this was offset by Osler's toss from the floor. Less than two minutes was left to play when Hoffer of Ohio State came through with a brilliant long range toss to give his team another one-point edge.

The big gallery was yelling like mad, when suddenly Bedell broke through Ohio's defense to score. In the excitement, Loughlin of Navy was fouled by Mattison and the Middy made good on two throws from the penalty mark.

Despite the fact that the Ohioans kept Loughlin, the Navy ace pretty well covered the Middy managed to squirm his way, through to score six times from court and four from the charity mark to garner scoring honors for the day.

Otherwise, Hoffer of the Buckeyes was the most spectacular player on the floor.

Hard Battle Annexed By Scarlet Five

Brown, Mattison and Hoffer Sparkle in 29-26 Basket-Ball Triumph.

By IRVEN C. SCHEIBECK.

A GAME, made to order for fans who enjoy standing on furniture and running down their lung batteries with Apache war whoops was dished out Saturday night in the Coliseum when Ohio State repeated an early season achievement by defeating Illinois, 29 to 26.

At no time during the frenzied contest were the contestants separated by more than five points; on three occasions the score was tied up and in four other instances, the lead changed hands.

COME FROM BEHIND.

Ohio held the whip hand most of the way, but midway of the second half the Orange and Blue jumped to the front and the Buckeyes finally had to come from behind to win.

The victory broke Ohio State's losing streak of three games and once more placed the Buckeyes in the first division of the Western Conference parade. Incidentally it marked the first time in the memory of man that Ohio State has ever succeeded in winning two basket-ball and one football game from Illinois in the same athletic year.

Brown, Mattison and Hoffer were the main cogs in the Buckeye machine which functioned with commendable smoothness throughout the nerve-racking contest. Brown and Mattison divided scoring honors with nine points.

Occasionally the Bucks' passing was a bit off key but Illinois was no better in this respect and the Buckeyes appeared the more unruffled when the going became strenuous.

For a time it looked as though Ohio State was to pay the penalty of uncertain shooting eyes.

After going into the second half on the long end of a 17 to 16 count, the home team saw Illinois jump into the lead on two cleverly executed field goals by Hellmich and Owen and a foul by Fencil, which over-balanced Mattison's long shot and Conrad's foul.

Mattison and Thies scored from charity lane to put Ohio back in front but Fencil popped in a long shot and Moore caged two free throws to give Illinois a 25 to 22 plurality with only four minutes remaining.

At this point, Brown and Hoffer, who had been missing shot after shot, crashed through with long loop-ing baskets to place the struggling Bucks in front, 26 to 25.

Neither attempt touched the rim and the resulting vocal exercises from the throats of some 4231 crazed cage addicts produced momentary deafness.

Hoffer's shot, which actually placed the Bucks in front, was made from a tip-off play, the Buckeye captain weaving his way into the open a la Carl Cramer and letting fly while in the vicinity of the free throw line.

Ohio elected to freeze the ball at this point, but Bennett of Illinois, nullified this poor strategy by fouling Hoffer and Joe made good on the free throw.

A double foul involving Hoffer and Moore found both athletes connecting, to run the count to 28-26.

With but seconds remaining, Thies scored from the field, but Brown had been fouled just before the lanky center substitute got his hands on the ball.

The field goal, as a result, didn't count, but Brown made good on one or two foul tosses for the point which definitely decided the issue.

The game was rather rough, although not as strenuous as the 24 called personal fouls would indicate.

A great deal of the official whistle blowing could just as well have been eliminated. Both centers, Conrad and Hellmich, went out on personals, but Thies and Moore, their substitutes, proved acceptable.

Owen, lanky back guard, was the outstanding performer for Illinois, caging four goals, three of them on long shovel shots which hit the basket for no apparent reason.

Bennett played well at forward, while Fencil, the other forward, was good in spots.

BOILERMAKERS GAIN EASY CAGE VICTORY

Victory Over Buckeyes Permits Lafayette Quintet an Opportunity to Battle for Big Ten Lead Against Northwestern Saturday.

LAFAYETTE, IND.—Ohio State's second attempt to knock Purdue out of the Western Conference championship race was not quite so successful and the Boilermakers walked over the Buckeyes in surprisingly easy fashion here Monday night, 43 to 26. Piggy Lambert's crew was clicking in perfect fashion during the first half and worked the Ohio defense out of position on several occasions for sleeper shots under the basket. The Boilermakers walked off the floor at the half-way mark with the game on ice, 27-10.

The game was one of the roughest seen on the local floor in years and both teams spent considerable time at the free throw line, with about the same degree of accuracy.

The Buckeyes were unable to crash through the Purdue defense for short shots and their long efforts refused to go through the nets. Hoffer and Mattison, two of Ohio's leading scorers, were busy the entire evening guarding Purdue's two high scorers, Wooden and Eddy. They performed their defensive tasks fairly well but both were ejected from the fray via the personal foul route late in the second period. Wooden and Eddy held the two Ohio stars to one point between them, cutting down the effectiveness of the Buckeye attack.

Most of the starrng for Ohio was taken care of by two speedy forwards, Lively and Colburn. The former injected plenty of pep into the fray and although he was not high in the scoring, his fine floor play was responsible for several Buckeye baskets. Colburn was completely off form in the first half, but when Coach Olsen sent him back into the game in the second period he quickly rang up five points for the invaders.

Purdue's squad again proved that it could not be stopped by bottling up one or two stars. The well-balanced Boilermaker club scored consistently from the top of the lineup on down. Ralph Parmenter, who played such a prominent part in the thrilling Purdue-Ohio State battle at Columbus, was again a thorn in the side of Ohio State. He dashed down the floor to score twice, on shots and hit two of his long shot specialties.

Wooden's flashy floor play was probably the feature of the game, but the Purdue star was slightly off form in basket shooting, and Fehring, who apparently has moved Stewart out of the center position, outjumped Conrad and Thies on almost every occasion despite their two or three inches advantage in height.

Ohio was badly outplayed until Lambert removed Eddy, Kellar and Fehring with 12 minutes of the second half remaining. Purdue was leading, 35 to 13, at this point, but the Buckeyes staged a rally and did a little better than hold their own until the final gun cracked.

Maroons Lead Entire Game To Score Win

Evans Tallies 15 Points
To Lead Winners' Attack.

CHICAGO, FEB. 20. — (AP). — Chicago's Maroons won their first basketball game of the Big Ten season tonight, upsetting Ohio State 29 to 26, in a rough battle.

Chicago got away in front and led all the way, and still had enough left to stall off a Buckeye rally late in the last period. The triumph was Chicago's first in eight games, and the defeat was Ohio's fifth in nine games. Evans led the Chicago attack with 15 points.

At the half, Chicago held a 19 to 15 lead.

BROWN TOPS BUCKEYES.

Herb Brown, forward, led the Buckeye attack, scoring four field goals and two fouls for a total of 10 points. Next in line was Fred Conrad, center, who made a basket and five free throws for a seven-point total.

Joe Hoffer, Ohio State's leading scorer, was held to a single field goal.

Lively Leads Attack With Ten Points

Buckeyes Use 12 Players In Rough and Tum-ble Tilt.

By IRVEN C. SCHEIBECK.

In a game which was long on energy but short on technique, Ohio State handed Chicago a 40 to 31 setback Saturday night in the Coliseum before a crowd of 3452 fans, including several hundred alumni, who returned to the campus for the dedication of the new gymnasium and natatorium.

Ohio State was obviously superior to the Chicago machine, which had nothing to offer in the way of a concerted attack. The Maroons depended instead on the unreliable long shot game which enabled them to beat the Bucks a week ago.

Saturday night, however, it did not produce results and had it not been for the fact that Coach Olsen ran in a veritable army of third and fourth stringers late in the proceedings, the visitors would have absorbed an even more pronounced drubbing.

MAROONS' SCORE SEVEN.

With the end of the game five minutes away, Ohio led 40 to 24, the Maroons tallying seven points during the remainder of the contest while the Buckeye subs were being held scoreless. At this time, Jerry Fisher, who replaced the ailing Mattison at guard, was the only member of the Buckeye starting lineup in action.

Bobby Lively, who subbed for the injured Colburn at right forward, and Bob Brown, his fellow Daytonian, were the outstanding stars in the Ohio State picture. Lively bounced around the floor like a rubber ball all evening and succeeded in getting in Maroons' hair like a half-pint of oil. He also found time to roll up 10 points.

Brown played a sparkling game, especially in the first half, his alert play giving the Buckeyes a pronounced advantage on tip-off plays and on rebound work off both baskets. Conrad played better than usual at center, while Fisher and Hoffer were so effective at the guards that Chicago was utterly unable to work the ball in for short shots. Fisher tallied four baskets while Hoffer weighed in with three baskets and a foul.

BUCKS TAKE LEAD.

The Buckeyes took the lead at the outset and were never headed, although the Maroons succeeded in sticking uncomfortably close during most of the first half. However, as the intermission drew near, the Buckeyes spurted and held a 23 to 14 margin when the boys took their rest period.

The Buckeyes increased their margin to as high as 16 points in the second half before the Maroons finally profited at the expense of the fourth stringers.

The game was a rough and tumble affair, 17 personals being called on the visitors and 12 on Ohio State. Blackie Conrad, Buckeye center, and Wehn, substitute guard or the Maroons, were waved out of the proceedings when they used up their allotted four.

Ashley and Stephenson were the outstanding performers for the visitors, the former playing a good floor game and Stephenson showing the best eye for the basket. Evans at center got a pair of baskets in the first half but was consistently jumped by both Conrad and Thies.

A prize burlesque was presented between halves of the game. Such notables as Hen Taylor, Pete Stinchcomb, Honus Graf, Guy Kesler, Sam Willaman, Ben Dempsey, Jim McClure, "Red" Trautman, "Red" Faust, Howard Yerges, and Lester Griffith, participated, and the fact that three basket-balls were used at various times made little difference inasmuch as none of the "has beens" could score baskets, anyhow "Mother" Ewing, attired in a catcher's mask and a pair of boxing gloves, "officialated."

The victory gave Ohio State a rating of five wins and as many defeats in the current campaign.

'Cats Remain In Scrap For Basket Title

Buckeyes Fade Out After Rolling Up 8-0 Lead On Visiting Cagers.

By IRVEN C. SCHEIBECK.

As far as Ohio State is concerned, Purdue and Northwestern can have the Western Conference basket-ball stage completely to themselves when they battle for the championship, Saturday night, at Evanston.

The Buckeyes' last chance to act as a factor in the title situation was obliterated, Monday night, in the fairgrounds coliseum, when the Scarlet and Gray quintet bowed to Northwestern 26 to 19, before a crowd of 5018 fans.

BUCKS TAKE LEAD.

Before succumbing to the Wildcats, Ohio gave the visitors many anxious moments, jumping into an 8 to 0 lead at the outset of proceedings and sticking well up in the ball game until all but eight minutes of the second half had been clicked off.

However, Northwestern was as relentless as the tide and once the tall, rangy aggregation started clicking, they rolled, along with all the ponderous majesty of Old Man River.

The Buckeyes did have one distinction, however. They completely dispelled the myth that Joe Reiff, Wildcat forward, is some sort of a cage super-man.

Reiff scored seven points, but did little else, and had it not been for Capt. Bob McCarnes, tow-headed forward; Elmer Johnson, tall center, and Buss Smith, guard, the enemy would have been unable to rally after the Buckeyes jumped away to their commanding early lead.

McCarnes scored only three points, but his floor play and his remarkable work on rebounds in the second half, was largely instrumental in the Buckeyes' downfall.

Johnson had trouble on the tip-off, Conrad grabbing off a surprising number of jumps for the Buckeyes, but in other departments of play, the Wildcat center was in complete control of the situation.

Captain Joe Hoffer, playing his last game before the home folks was the outstanding Buckeye. He tallied eight points, to divide scoring honors with Johnson and was the main-spring about which the Ohio attack revolved.

Brown, Lively and Mattison were effective in spots, but the team lacked the class to hold its head above water when the Wildcats finally challenged in a serious way.

LONG SHOTS CLICK.

Northwestern won by capitalizing on a high percentage of long shot attempts. After two baskets by Hoffer, one by Lively and fouls by Hoffer and Lively, had given the Scarlet aggregation an 8-0 advantage at the outset, Northwestern took time out and soon started to whittle down the advantage by long fielders.

Reiff scored the first fielder and Johnson the second, a free throw by Reiff reducing the Buckeyes' margin to three before Mattison came through with another two-pointer.

A toss from charity lane by Farber and baskets by Johnson and Smith, both long, looping fielders, from near the middle of the floor, enabled the 'Cats to tie the count, 10-10, at the intermission.

It was some time before Ohio started to fade out in the second half. Brown made good on one of two charity tosses to place Ohio in front again and Hoffer scored on a tip-off play to make it 13-12 after McCarnes had given the Wildcats the lead for the first time on a long-range toss.

Farber once more tied it up with a free throw and Smith's second basket placed Northwestern in the lead for keeps, the visitors gradually drawing away as the home guard missed shot after shot at the network from both long and short range.

Bucks Drop Cage Finale

Ohio State Humbled by Michigan, 30-27; Conrad High Scorer.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — The University of Michigan basket ball team closed its season Monday night by defeating Ohio State, 30 to 27, in a loosely played game.

The Wolverines blew a six-point lead in the first period and finished the half on the short end of a 14-11 count after leading, 8 to 2. They regained the advantage shortly after the second half started, counting 11 points before the Buckeyes got organized again, but with three minutes to go the visitors had regained the lead at 27-26.

Williamson sank a free throw to even the score and a field goal by Allen, substitute forward, was enough to win.
